There are several pressing issues that require attention before we can address other matters. For instance, the letter I penned and my request for findings of fact are essential for the accurate preparation of a final order pertaining to Susan's motion to sign.

Furthermore, due to my speech and cognitive challenges, I require accommodations to effectively participate in the legal process. This will likely necessitate most communications to be in written form. One advantage is that many concerns can be resolved by submission, making the process more efficient.

It's crucial to note that enforcement remains a priority. My rights have been consistently infringed upon by the Petitioner, and I have been seeking redress since May 2021, yet this has not been addressed in Court.

Finally, the timeline for my motion for a new trial is vital, as it impacts the appeal process. If the new trial is granted, there's no need for an appeal before the stipulated deadline. However, if it's denied, I'll have to adhere to the appeal protocol.

Of the dates you sent, Monday Nov. 13, 2023 works for me, but I am hopeful Judge Wells will accommodate my disabilities and allow written communication & presentation of evidence, as well as additional time for my responses.
